

CODE OF CONDUCT

Code of Conduct

1 Overview

- 1.1 The reputation and integrity of Centamin plc and its subsidiaries (the “Company”) depends on its directors and employees acting, and being seen as acting, in a way which is consistent with best practice for corporate governance in the community in which we operate.
- 1.2 The Company expects all employees to adhere to the highest standards of personal and professional integrity and to avoid any conduct that might reflect unfavourably upon them, other employees or upon the Company. The Company’s business goals are important and demanding but these goals must be achieved honestly and ethically.
- 1.3 With these values in mind, the management of the Company has adopted the attached Code of Conduct which sets forth the standards of behaviour that the Company and its subsidiaries require of their officers and employees. Action or failure of action, in contravention of the Code may be considered as unauthorized and outside the course of employment, and the Company will not indemnify the officer or employee for his or her costs that arise out of such conduct.
- 1.4 Employees are encouraged to discuss the application of this Code to specific business circumstances with, and are required to report any contravention of the Code to, the Chief Executive Officer (“CEO”), the Chairman or the Company Secretary of the Company.

2 A commitment of ethical business conduct

- 2.1 The provisions of this Code are mandatory and apply to all employees of the Company, any subsidiaries and to joint ventures managed by the Company.
- 2.2 It will be the responsibility of the CEO to ensure that the provisions of this Code are complied with. Compliance is expected under all circumstances. Every employee who has executive or managerial responsibilities is expected to ensure that the provisions of this Code are communicated to the employees reporting to him or her and must report any contravention of this Code promptly to the CEO, Chairman and/or General Counsel or Company Secretary of the Company. The Code affirms in specific terms the Company’s commitment to uphold high moral and ethical standards and sets out basic behavioral standards required of those conducting its business.
- 2.3 Over zealotness, good intentions and failure to seek timely legal advice will not excuse violations of this Code. While the Company’s activities are subject to a variety of laws and customs in the various jurisdictions throughout the world in which it operates, the Board of Directors believes that honesty, integrity and fairness are the essential standards to be observed.

3 Compliance with the law

- 3.1 Employees are expected to comply with the laws and regulations of the country in which they operate.

- 3.2 Ignorance of the law is not a defence. Moreover, agreements or arrangements need not necessarily be in writing for contravention to be inferred from the conduct of the parties. If this Code does not cover a particular situation or if the application or interpretation of a local law is uncertain, or in circumstances where the proper course of ethical conduct is unclear, employees should seek the assistance of their supervisor who, if necessary, should seek competent local legal advice or, if necessary, the advice of the Company's General Counsel. If there is insufficient time to obtain such advice, employees should conduct themselves in a manner they would not hesitate to have fully publicly disclosed. Supervisors, on learning of any contravention of this Code, shall take appropriate corrective action and shall immediately report the contravention to either the Chairman, CEO and/or General Counsel or the Company Secretary, whichever is appropriate.

If a conflict of interest or potential conflict of interest arises, immediate full disclosure shall be made to the CEO who shall manage the conflict in such a way that the interests of the Company as a whole are safeguarded.

Holding interests or investments with a competitor, customer or supplier

- 4.2 Employees and their immediate family members must not have interests or investments in a competitor, customer, partner, co-venturer or supplier of the Company that would create, or appear to create, a conflict of interest. A conflict of interest would not normally arise out of merely holding shares in a company. However, a conflict of interest could arise if, for example, the employee held shares in a company which is a supplier and the employee was able to influence decisions relating to the award of contracts to that company.

Influencing decisions concerning employee's family members

- 4.3 Employees must not be in a position of influence regarding the employment conditions or performance assessment of a partner or family member except in exceptional circumstances and with the knowledge of the employee's supervisor or as approved by the CEO.
